

Magnesium Chloride flakes

Magnesium chloride is a soluble form of flaked magnesium. It can be administered via drinking water if introduced gradually or mixed in the feeder wagon as a component of the TMR. Magnesium chloride can be used for dry cows to assist with the prevention of milk fever. It will also provide a source of magnesium at turnout for prevention of grass staggers. Cows are unable to store magnesium so it must be provided in the diet.

